Daniel E. Dawes, JD
Daniel E. Dawes, JD, is a professor of health law and policy, the Director of the Satcher Health Leadership Institute, Executive Director of Health Policy at Morehouse School of Medicine, and co-founder of the Health Equity Leadership and Exchange Network (HELEN). A scholar, attorney, and health policy expert in the movement to advance Health Equity among under-resourced, vulnerable, and marginalized communities, Dawes brings a forward-thinking, inclusive, and multidisciplinary approach to health policy, and has been at the forefront of recent major federal health policy negotiations in the United States. A published expert on health reform, health equity, health disparities, behavioral health, and social determinants of health, Dawes is the author of two groundbreaking books published by Johns Hopkins University Press: 150 Years of Obamacare and The Political Determinants of Health. He has worked on the U.S. Senate Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions Committee where he advised committee members on issues related to health care, public health, employment, education, and disability law and policy.
