Food for Thought: Lunch Dates in the Desert
Hosted by Janos Wilder and David Yetman

The Sonoran Desert’s foods are as diverse as its landscapes. With this in mind, researchers from the Southwest Center have teamed up with chef Janos Wilder, The Learning Curve, and the Desert Laboratory on Tumamoc Hill to bring you an interactive, multidisciplinary lecture series that we are calling Food for Thought.

When: Fridays, Sept 25 – Oct 30, 12:00-1:30pm
Cost: $195 (6 sessions using scheduled video links, with live Zoom Intro and Q&A session with the instructor following each presentation)

SCHEDULE OF LECTURES AND INSTRUCTORS

Session 1 - GARY NADHAN - Friday, September 25
Prehistoric Menus are New
Ancestral Desert Foods as a Springboard to Our Future

Session 2 - JENNIFER JENKINS - Friday, October 2
Small Town and the Big Screen
The Early History of Tucson in Cinema, 1896 - 1940

Session 3 - DAVID YETMAN - Friday, October 9
Mountains and Sagueros
Why the Plants Love the Hills

Session 4 – EMMA PÉREZ - Friday, October 16
From Translator to Traitor
La Malinche as a Feminist Icon in the Borderlands

Session 5 – BEN WILDER - Friday, October 23
Cactus-studded Coasts
Reconnecting to the Gulf of California

Session 6 – ROBIN REINEKE - Friday, October 30
Documenting the Dead
Forensic, Mourning and Testimony along the US-Mexico Border

swc.arizona.edu
cquinteroh@arizona.edu
310.467.6535